PROJECTS

AI-Powered Weight Adviser

- Built an AI-powered weight management system to analyze BMI, body fat percentage, daily calorie requirements, and user health profiles for personalized recommendations.
- Processed user health and dietary data, performed feature engineering, and developed a Linear Regression model for body fat percentage prediction.
- Integrated the Mifflin–St Jeor equation for calorie estimation and implemented an allergy-aware diet recommendation system based on dietary preferences, allergies, calorie requirements, and health conditions.
- Developed a Python FastAPI backend to process user data, generate personalized diet and exercise recommendations, and manage diet-plan information.

Hospital Recommendation System

- Built a content-based hospital recommendation system to recommend suitable hospitals based on user location, hospital services, care type, and requirements.
- Cleaned and preprocessed hospital dataset features, performed feature engineering, and applied TF-IDF vectorization to represent hospital information.
- Calculated cosine similarity to rank hospitals based on their relevance to user requirements and integrated geospatial distance calculation for location-based recommendations.
- Used Python, Pandas, Scikit-learn, and Geopy to develop the recommendation pipeline and provide ranked hospital suggestions based on user preferences.

ACHIEVEMENTS

Received a 100% tuition fee waiver at GLS University for academic excellence.
